

I need you ...

... to just be present in my classroom. When teachers are trying to give lots of one-on-one attention to each of us, an extra adult means I don't have to hear, "Just a minute." I may hear that a lot at home and I need to know I'm more important than I think I am.

I need you ...

... to help in our therapeutic classroom as a volunteer to assist teachers. Help me explore the environment, read to me, or help me "cook" a meal for you in our play kitchen. Talk to me about shapes, colors, or textures, — anything to help me build my vocabulary.

I need you ...

... to come by the nursery at the end of the day and help with light cleaning and sanitizing. Classroom teachers have lots of charting to do and our early and late bus routes means less help after class to vacuum, sanitize toys & furniture, and clean the potty.

I need you ...

... to help at our annual Children's Boutique & Baby Quilt Show. This event raises money for the programs and family accesses at the nursery. You can help price, distribute posters, or even make a quilt before the fall event. We may need help at the show, too.

I need you ...

... to help keep the clothes closet at the nursery tidy, and maybe sewing a button on a shirt or putting a patch on a pair of pants. As a toddler, I can go through lots of clothes. You can really help by collecting gently-used clothing, too — especially coats, shoes & socks.

Sometimes people who work in an office atmosphere welcome a change of scenery, but if you work in an office and could help with filing, copying, mailings, or answering the phone, we would very much welcome the help! And, if a longer-term commitment interests you, consider serving on our board of directors. All help is welcomed! Thank you for making a difference.
